INTERNATIONAL PRELIMINARY REPORT ON PATENTABILITY

International application No.

PCT/JP03/11914

Box No. V Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims	1, 2	YES
	Claims		NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims		YES
	Claims	1, 2	NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims	1, 2	YES
	Claims		NO

2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)Document 1: JP, 7-65705, A (Canon Inc.), 10 March, 1995 (10.03.95)*Claim 1

The subject matter of claim 1 does not appear to involve an inventive step in view of document 1 cited in the ISR.

Document 1 discloses that "fine particles" are formed "on an insulator by letting the tip of a probe of a scanning tunneling microscope leave" ([0044]). Furthermore, for letting the atoms of the said tip leave, voltage pulses are used ([0046]). Moreover, as the material of the said fine particles, silver is stated ([0059]). It is considered to be obvious for a person skilled in the art to select silver as the material of the said probe when fine particles of silver are formed.

Furthermore, it is stated that "as the materials of, for example, the substrate, a wide range of materials can be used without any limitation" ([0057]). So, a person skilled in the art could have easily formed fine particles of silver on a semiconductor substrate by the method described in document 1.

Claim 2

The subject matter of claim 2 does not appear to involve an inventive step in view of document 1.

A person skilled in the art could have, as required, set the conditions of voltage pulses in the fine silver particle production method described in document 1.
